

Key Timelines in Successful Programs

Three Tips to Help You Succeed

Give learners finite amounts of time for self-paced course completion

Setting time goals is important to help motivate your learners to complete courses over a longer timeframe. Use the expected course length as a guidepost to set expected milestones.

Provide learning reminders

Gentle nudges can have a positive impact on learner motivation and performance. Use the edX dashboard to track learner progress, course activity, and enrollments. Remind learners of upcoming dates and encourage their learning progress.

Encourage your organization to make space for workday learning

Research shows there is a statistically significant positive relationship between workday learning and course completion rates, even if it's just an hour a week.